Switzerland

Switzerland – a modern financial center with tradition and experience

- Switzerland is the undisputed capital of the world's wealth management industry. People around the world have entrusted their wealth to Swiss banks as far back as the 15th century, reaping the benefits of their financial expertise, diligence and unrivalled security.
- Proactive on an international level for centuries, the asset allocation solutions and management strategies conceived by Switzerland's private bankers are renowned. This tradition for holistic thinking, international savoir-faire and intelligent diversification of client assets is just as alive today as in the past.
- Often the first to explore new markets, the investment funds managed by Swiss banks are consistently ranked among the best in the institutional markets. Risk diversification and hedging represent the other cornerstones of Swiss banking expertise. Synonymous the world over with standards of service, tradition and discretion, the Swiss banking community has long revered personal freedom and the rights of individual investors.

Deutsche Bank Switzerland – a long track record of professionalism

- Established in 1980, Deutsche Bank Switzerland, with headquarters in Geneva and branch offices in Zurich and Lugano, was set up to cater for the demand for more sophisticated and personally tailored banking services. Together with the Swiss private bank Rüd, Blass & Cie located in Zurich, the bank manages over 40 billion Swiss Francs in client assets. Deutsche Bank Switzerland including its subsidiaries accounts for about 700 staff.
- As a legally independent private wealth management house, Deutsche Bank Switzerland continues to be endowed with all the traditional protection and resources associated with a typical Swiss private bank. At the same time, as subsidiary of Deutsche Bank AG, it draws on the strength and stability of a leading financial player.
- Combining the Swiss banking experience with in-depth knowledge of local markets, your adviser is well placed to understand your background and the needs that are particular to you, whatever part of the world you call your home.
- As our client, you will be assigned your own adviser who will act as your gateway to our global range of private wealth management services and resources. Our advisers are drawn from a range of professional multicultural backgrounds and are often fluent in several languages.
- We are proud to be able to say that we have nurtured numerous fruitful and long lasting relationships with discerning clients from all over the world, based undoubtedly on the confidence inspired by our Private Wealth Management advisers.
